

Family physicians and clinics supporting workers with workplace injuries

Many people who need care for an injury covered by workers' compensation do not have a family physician or doctor. If you do not have a family doctor and would like to have one see you for your work-related injury, the doctors and clinics listed below can help.

You can also book an appointment directly with a nurse practitioner, physiotherapist or chiropractor to see you for your injury at no cost to you.

If you choose to visit a walk-in clinic, we encourage you to continue receiving care at the same clinic for as long as your injury lasts.

Physicians and clinics interested in joining this list can contact the WCB's health-care services:
