The Balanced Scorecard and Our Planning Process

Revisiting our Balanced Scorecard through 2012 and 2013 had a significant impact on our management practices. Our Scorecard now is the filter through which we consider priorities and objectives, identify and rank risks, select projects, and measure and report on our performance. The Scorecard has become so integrated into how we run our organization that, for the first time, its four perspectives were used to present the Management Discussion & Analysis in our 2013 Annual Report.

Our strategic and operational planning practice has been influenced by our Scorecard. Starting with this year, strategic planners first reviewed and confirmed our corporate Scorecard. Then they considered whether their Strategic Plan aligned with our Scorecard, or needed change. The Strategic Plan then was given to operational planners, who examined and revised their Operational Plan to ensure alignment from the Balanced Scorecard and the Strategic Plan through to the work done by our front line staff. The end result is a Strategy Map that illustrates how a set of key operational objectives achieves the Board Members’ Strategic Plan.

You will find our Strategy Map on page 7. The Map has four sections called perspectives. Each perspective gives us one view of our organization. Taken together, the four perspectives balance our focus and help us to prioritize and select where our effort and resources should be placed.

Other features of our planning process remain the same:

- Strategic planning continues to be the responsibility of our Board Members. Our CEO and Vice Presidents attend strategic planning sessions to provide our Board with information the Board may need to reach their decisions.
- Operational planning remains the responsibility of our CEO. Vice Presidents develop the operational plan for our CEO’s approval.
- We continue to work with a rolling three-year planning horizon. This keeps planners focused on the near term and allows for incremental change rather than abrupt shifts in strategic objectives.
- Formal strategic planning and operational planning still are done each year. This brings stability to our Strategic and Operational Plan while allowing the flexibility needed to respond to emerging issues in our operating environment.
Changes to Our Corporate Strategy Map

Strategic planners reviewed the strategic objectives on the corporate Strategy Map to confirm the continuing relevance of the objectives. They agreed that objectives in the Stakeholders perspective (Excel at Serving Injured Workers and Excel at Serving Employers) were the highest level strategic goals for the WCB, and did not require change.

Strategic planners’ review of objectives in the Internal perspective did result in change. Objectives in this perspective are meant to describe how we will reach service excellence. Planners believed that the increased attention on injured worker and employer services, whether in the area of compensation or prevention, should be reflected in the objectives. These objectives now state: Excel at Compensation Programs and Services, and Excel at Injury Prevention Programs and Services.

The Enablers perspective on our strategy map focuses on the effectiveness and efficiency of our staff and our processes. Both must function well to support the achievement of our highest level objectives for customer service. Strategic planners determined that the language of the objectives in this perspective (Enhance Great Relationships, Have a Competent Workforce, and Ensure Effective Processes) did not require change, but that the relationship between the three objectives was better described with double-headed arrows. That change has been made.

We must have adequate financial resources to fulfill our mandate and to meet our obligations. The Financial perspective keeps us focused on adequate financial resources so that we can fulfill our mandate and meet our obligations. Strategic planners noted that objectives in this perspective focused on administrative expenses. They agreed that attention to these expenses was required and takes place, but the higher strategic requirement is optimizing all costs, including program and administration costs, to provide the greatest value to our customers and stakeholders. For this reason, the objective Be Cost Effective was changed to Optimize Costs. The objective, Ensure Financial Stability did not require change.

With these changes, the Board directed operational planners to develop initiatives and projects that achieve objectives in the Financial, Enablers and Internal perspectives – with the understanding that success in these areas creates sustainable service excellence for our customers.
In serving injured workers and employers, we excel in the development and delivery of workers' compensation programs and services. In serving all workers and employers, we develop and deliver injury prevention services that move Saskatchewan quickly to zero workplace injuries.

2015-2017 STRATEGIC AND OPERATIONAL PLAN
Our 2015 to 2017 Strategic Plan

There are five elements to our Strategic Plan:

- Vision Statement
- Mission Statement
- Statement of Principles and Beliefs
- Value Statements, and
- Strategy Statements

Strategic planners considered what changes to these elements would be needed to reflect changes in our operating environment in the past year, as well as to our Balanced Scorecard and Strategy Map. They agreed that our Vision Statement and Statement of Principles and Beliefs remained current and relevant, and would not be changed. Minor language changes were made to our Values Statement.

The Mission Statement and Strategy Statements were amended by strategic planners. The Board had given considerable strategic attention to best practices in governance structures and models through 2013. Administration had put considerable effort in to the development and launch of a process improvement methodology for the WCB. Strategic planners agreed the continuing importance to the organization of both governance and continuous improvement, and greater emphasis on employer services, should be reflected in our Mission Statement and Strategy Statements.

Our 2015 to 2017 Strategic Plan, with the amendments noted above, follows.

The Strategic Plan is rooted in the Meredith Principles and describes what the WCB holds to be true about Saskatchewan’s compensation system, our stakeholders, and the nature of our relationships with workers, employers and the people of Saskatchewan.

Our 2015 to 2017 Operational Plan

Our Board approves an Operational Plan that is written and executed by executive management. The Operational Plan intends to achieve the strategic objectives identified by the Board in their Strategic Plan.

Executive management considers several factors as they develop their Operational Plan:

- The corporate Balanced Scorecard and Strategy Map.
- The Board’s Strategic Plan.
- Emerging issues in our operating environment.
- Operational data.
- Resource allocation (time, effort, technology).
- Risk mitigation needs, and
- Collaboration between WCB business units.

The result is an aligned and integrated Operational Plan that positions us for optimal strategic and operational success, defined as delivering service value to customers.

For operational planners, changes made by the Board to our Strategic Plan brought to their planning discussions an emphasis on:

- Following a continuous improvement methodology that aligns the organization around customer service objectives and that creates sustainable results.
- Using the portfolio management framework introduced in 2013 to prioritize, sequence, resource, and deliver improvement projects.
- Optimizing costs by managing program and administrative expenses.
- Focusing attention on governance and employer services.

Our 2015-2017 Operational Plan is presented in the following pages.
