Classification Change Form

The Saskatchewan Workers' Compensation Board (WCB) uses a classification structure that groups similar employers into rate codes based on the nature of their industrial undertaking and not the specific occupations of each individual. An industrial undertaking is determined by the work, trade or service in which the employer is engaged. Employers operating in similar industries, or providing similar services, are grouped together and pay the same industry premium rate to promote fairness and equity amongst all employers.

Please complete if the nature of your business changed, is misclassified, or has added operations in an additional industry.
